

TARDIEU REJECTED BY PROGRESSIVES

Clemenceau Champion Put
Last on List of Candidates for Deputy.

WILL TRY FOR THIRD TIME

Expected to Run as an Independent—Gen. Sarraill Seeks a Seat.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Gen. Andre Tardieu, who presented himself recently for nomination as a member of the Chamber of Deputies on the ticket of the Left (Republican) party, his old organization, and was rejected, suffered another disappointment when he joined the Progressive party of the Right and tried for a nomination.

Tardieu, who had lost the sympathy of the moderate Republicans, turned toward the Right, where many times during the anti-Government debates he found support for the Clemenceau Ministry. He failed, however, to obtain such support for his nomination and came out last on the election list of candidates selected by the party.

It is understood that he will make another attempt to run independently, trusting to his record as High Commissioner to the United States and delegate to the Peace Conference.

An interesting candidacy for a seat in the Deputies announced from the provinces is that of Gen. Sarraill, the noted commander of the Army of the Orient, who was recalled by Premier Clemenceau. He is one of the few Generals in the allied armies noted for his socialist sympathies.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Several Socialist members of the Chamber of Deputies who are about to quit office have been excluded from the party lists by the Socialist Federation of the Seine, this action being taken because they voted for the peace treaty with Germany and upheld the Government in the Chambers. Several leaders, notably M. Renaudel, have decided to appeal to the administrative commission of the party, asking that members who have been excluded be reinstated, and that Deputies leaving office be entered at the head of the lists.

Premier Clemenceau has decided to deliver his important political address, which has been forecast for some time.

in Strasbourg on November 3, according to the newspaper Excelsior. The campaign for the election of a new Chamber of Deputies will be in full swing after its delivery. The tickets of most of the parties are, however, not yet completed. The Socialists had practically completed their lists of candidates when Moderate representatives of the party, whose candidacies had been excluded, existing political allies, took steps to nominate separate tickets in the Department of the Seine, which threatens a serious split.

The attempt of the Republican party to form a coalition of the anti-Socialist parties in Paris and in several Departments is still under way. Former Premier Briand is holding out for a coalition nomination in the Loire Department, but has been offered a candidacy in several other Departments.

Ex-Premier Viviani was selected to lead the Republican Socialist ticket in Creuse, but he announced he would accept only if two former soldiers are placed on the ticket. M. Millerand is mentioned as a candidate in Alsace as well as from Paris, and M. Delcasse, abandoning his old district, Ariège, is also mentioned as a candidate from Alsace. A movement is under way in the regained provinces, however, to exclude all non-residents from the regular party tickets. M. Franklin-Bouillon, chairman of the committee on Foreign Affairs in the War Parliament, leads the Opposition ticket in the Seine-et-Oise Department.

Gen. de Castelnau has accepted a nomination for Aveyron. Other soldier aspirants are Gen. Maudhuy, ex-Governor of Metz, for a Lorraine district, and Gen. Hirschauer, Governor of Strasbourg, for an Alsatian district. Lieut. Rene Fonck, the French ace, has abandoned his candidacy, but Capt. Heurteaux, another French ace, is willing to accept a nomination.

The keynote of the governmental platform, which will be sounded by Premier Clemenceau Sunday, will be, it is credibly reported, the union of all Republican forces to promote the recovery of France through ardent labor and by opposition to disorder and Bolshevism.

SEES HOPE FOR POMERENE.

Campaign Manager Believes He Will Get Nomination.

Maurice F. Lyons, national campaign manager of the committee that is boosting Senator Alton Pomerene of Ohio for the Democratic nomination for President, was in New York city yesterday on his way from Illinois to Washington. He declared his belief that Senator Pomerene would have from 235 to 250 votes in the early stages of the contest in the convention and that number would be steadily increased.

Although acknowledging that he was looking around for some one to start a campaign for Pomerene delegates in New York State, Mr. Lyons refused to indicate whom he had in mind. He said he had just come from Peoria and Springfield, Ill., and that he had reason to believe his candidate would be a strong contender in the Presidential primaries in that State.

ARMENIA MISSION OPPOSES MANDATE

Report Handed to Polk in Paris Makes No Specific Recommendations.

MASSACRE IS FEARED

Natives in Old Russia May Be Wiped Out Before Allies
Can Act.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Major-Gen. James G. Harbord, head of the American mission that has just returned from Turkey, will submit the report of the mission to-night to Frank L. Polk, American member of the Supreme Council. Though there are understood to be divergent views among the members of the mission, there will be no minority report submitted.

Nothing is definitely known as to the text of the report, but it is understood that it makes no special recommendation. It is known quite positively, however, that the members of the mission, or at least the great majority of them, regard the acceptance by the United States of a mandate for Armenia alone as entirely out of the question.

By the Associated Press.

ERIVAN, Armenia, Oct. 10.—Fears that the remaining Armenians within the boundaries of old Russia may be wiped out before the Peace Conference settles the fate of the new born republic were expressed to-day by Premier Khashtsian, and the same apprehension is felt by American missionary workers here. Such a view, however, is not entertained by Col. William Haskell, representing American relief organizations and also High Commissioner for the four great Powers in Armenia.

Unless the portion of Turkey should be announced, which would stir up political elements now relatively quiet, it is not believed there will be any action against Armenians in Turkey proper, nor any attempt to despatch troops into Russian Armenia. In the latter region a neutral zone was established by Col. Haskell, who believes there will not be any organized attacks by Turks or troops from Azerbaijan, pending a settlement of the middle East question by the peace conference. He may, however, ask for a regiment of American soldiers to guard railways, make highways safe and protect relief workers against uncontrolled bands of Kurds and Tatars. This also would tend to strengthen the morale of the little Armenian Army of 10,000 men.

Since British forces withdrew to Bat-um robber bands have grown bolder and have made during daylight holdups of American and British travelers. It is pointed out that while the Turks were in control at Batum they whipped a few outlaws, thus securing safety to life and property. Under British control, however, the outlaws have been adopted and disorder has been growing, trains being held up.

Consideration has also been given another temporary measure which would consist in ousting the majority of the members of the Armenian Government, who are charged with dishonesty, mismanagement and the exclusion of better elements of Armenians from the government.

While conditions in Transcaucasia will be unsettled until a definite plan is formulated by the Peace Conference, which may possibly be next winter, it is suggested that if Gen. Denikine, the Cossack chief in southern Russia, should announce that he will not enter Caucasus his action would have a stabilizing effect. It is believed that the people of Daghestan are partially won by Agakhan Gen. Denikine by Moslem elements in Azerbaijan and that the Georgians are also potentially hostile. Both of these elements are afraid to turn their backs on the Russian Sea fleet. They fear he may bombard Baku, seize its oil and thus paralyze the Batum-Baku Railway, which uses oil fuel in its locomotives.

TARTAR CHIEF ASKS U. S. AID

Shamyl Bey Pleads With Harbord Mission.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Saturday, Oct. 13.—The condition of the peoples in the middle East was discussed to-day by Shamyl Bey, the Tartar chief who saved the Harbord mission from robbery and imprisonment by his fellow bandits. The talk took place at night around the campfire, where the Associated Press correspondent and others were prisoners.

"What we want above all," said the chief, "was a peace of justice, which can be brought about only by a strong outside power that will punish the guilty, though he be my brother."

"We are not Bolsheviks; we are too uneducated to understand such theories. All we know is that once we had property, and now we are reduced to beggary and robbery by race quarrels. Neither the Armenians nor ourselves now how to govern."

It was a voice of the wilderness speaking for millions of Kurds, Tartars and Turks, who blindly feel the need of good government, but do not know how to secure it, though vaguely hoping that America may in some way help.

With reference to the proposal for a hijack mandate covering all the Ottoman Empire, including Mesopotamia, it is asserted here that it would cost the United States too much and also that the United States has no administrative officials.

Movie Jobs for Soldier Cripples.
The Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men has found another way to cheer ex-service men whose limbs were lost or shattered in the war. They are making motion picture operators out of some of them and getting well paid jobs for the men they have trained. Classes are held daily at the institute, 811 Fourth avenue, and men are taught in the course of two or three months how to handle a picture projection machine expertly. The first graduate went to work for a big film company for $100 a week, and is now receiving $150. Two crippled men have been taken to the theatre of the city at an average wage of $35.

An Old Love Song

What memories of old-time romance live imperishably in such charming ballads as "Annie Laurie" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes"! Appealing alike to the little child or the most erudite technician, their tender beauty touches a chord of sentiment that lies in all of us. Lullabies our mothers sang, old love songs and ballads—these are the music of the home and fireside, the music of universal appeal.

Through the Ampico you may hear the simple beauty of such music interpreted with the most exquisite feeling by talented artists, you may hear the whispered cadence of an old song, the lilting measures of a sparkling waltz or the rich chords of a favorite hymn.

The world of music is at your command! The old songs, light classics, the popular music of the day, the great classic masterpieces and delightful selections from grand opera. All this is possible through the wonderful Ampico through which you will hear such pianists as Godowsky, Levitzki, Ornstein, Rachmaninoff and a hundred other talented masters of the pianoforte who are always at your command, ready to play for you in your own home the music you love best.

You are cordially invited to hear the art of the great pianists in the Ampico Studios.
